

Privacy Policy

AudibleRx does not require you to enter any information to access the counseling sessions. AudibleRx maintains no liability for the privacy policy or terms of use of any website linked to the AudibleRx website. AudibleRx is not affiliated with any drug manufacturer and offers no advertising and receives no funding from advertising on its website. AudibleRx is free for the individual user. Healthcare practitioners may license the use of AudibleRx to provide it as a medication education tool to their clients. Any information acquired from the license agreement is not shared without written consent from the licensee. We do not request or store sensitive or any personal medical information from our visitors. If you have any questions regarding the Privacy Policy of AudibleRx, please contact us.